Level K: Self and Others

The social studies program at the kindergarten level focuses on helping students develop awareness of themselves as growing individuals. Children's unique qualities as well as similarities to others are stressed. Children learn about values, ideas, customs, and traditions through folktales, legends, music, and oral histories. In addition, children's relationships with others in the classroom and the school become sources for social studies learning. Social interaction skills are integral to the kindergarten program. Emphasis is placed on using content that is relevant and personally meaningful. Awide range of interdisciplinary activities can help children grow and develop and gain knowledge and skills. Children also begin to learn about their role as citizens by accepting rights and responsibilities in the classroom and by learning about rules and laws.

Level K—Content Understandings	Concepts/Themes
Myself and others  My physical self includes gender, ethnicity, and languages. Each person has needs, wants, talents, and abilities. Each person has likes and dislikes. Each person is unique and important. People are alike and different in many ways.	Identity

Grade 1: My Family and Other Families, Now and Long Ago

The grade 1 social studies program focuses on helping students learn about their roles as members of a family and school community. The development of identity and social interaction are stressed. The students explore self, family, and school through the five standards. Students learn about families now and long ago, as they study different kinds of families that have existed in different societies and communities. Students also begin to locate places on maps and globes and learn how maps serve as representations of physical features and objects. Building on the level K program, the grade 1 program encourages interdisciplinary learning to assist in developing the content, concepts, and skills outlined for the K-12 social studies program.

Grade 1—Content Understandings

Concepts/Themes

My family and other families

Families and different kinds of families exist in all communities and societies though they may differ.

Families have beliefs, customs, and traditions.

Families have roles and responsibilities.

Families are interdependent.

Families lived in other places and at different times.

Identity

Culture Interdependence

History of my family

Families have a past and they change over time; my family timeline illustrates my family's history.

Change

Some family beliefs, customs, and traditions are based on family histories.

People of diverse racial, religious, national, and ethnic groups transmit their beliefs, customs, and traditions.

Culture

Folktales, biographies, oral histories, and legends relate family histories.

My community and local region

Different events, people, problems, and ideas make up my community's history.

Folklore, myths, legends, and other cultural contributions have helped shape our community and local region.

Culture

Change

Monuments and important places are located in my neighborhood.

Communities are connected economically and geographically.

People exchange elements of their cultures.

Places and Regions

Places in my community and local region

Places can be located on maps and on a globe.

Maps and diagrams serve as representations of places, physical features, and objects.

Cardinal directions can be used to locate places and physical features.

Symbols represent places and can be used to locate geographic features and physical characteristics.

Human Systems

People depend on and modify their physical environments to meet basic needs.

Challenge of meeting needs and wants

Scarcity means that people's wants exceed their limited resources.

Communities provide facilities and services to help satisfy the needs and wants of people who live there.

People use tools, technologies, and other resources to meet their needs and wants.

People in communities must make choices due to unlimited needs and wants and scarce resources; these choices involve costs.

Technology Needs and Wants

Scarcity

Through work, people in communities earn income to help meet their needs and wants.

Economic decision making

People make decisions about how to spend the money they earn.

People work to earn money to purchase the goods and services they need and/or want.

Making

Key terms related to the study of government include: democracy, power, citizenship, nation-state, and justice.

Decision

People plan, organize, and make decisions for the common good.

Students can participate in problem solving, decision making, and conflict resolution.

Grade 2: My Community and Other United States Communities

In the grade 2 social studies program, students explore rural, urban, and suburban communities, concentrating on communities in the United States. The student's own community can serve as an example for studying about and understanding other communities. Students study about communities from the perspectives of the five social studies learning standards. Community studies should include content examples from cultures other than the students' own, and from a variety of perspectives including geographic, socioeconomic, and ethnic. Students continue to learn how to locate places on maps and globes and how different communities are influenced by geographic and environmental factors. They also study about the rights and responsibilities of citizenship in their communities.

Grade 2—Content Understandings	Concepts/Themes

Grade 3: Communities Around the World—Learning About People and Places

In the grade 3 social studies program, students study about communities throughout the world. The five social studies standards form the basis for this investigation as students learn about the social, political, geographic, economic, and historic characteristics of different world communities. Students learn about communities that reflect the diversity of the world's peoples and cultures. They study Western and non-Western examples from a variety of geographic areas. Students also begin to learn about historic chronology by placing important events on timelines. Students locate world communities and learn how different communities meet their basic needs and wants. Students begin to compare the roles of citizenship and the kinds of governments found in various world communities.

Grade 4: Local History and Local Government

The grade 4 social studies program builds on the students' understanding of families, schools, and communities and highlights the political institutions and historic development of their local communities with connections to New York State and the United States. The in-depth study of local government will emphasize the structure and function of the different branches and the roles of civic leaders. Students continue to learn about the rights, responsibilities, and duties of citizenship. By participating in school activities that teach democratic values, students develop a sense of political efficacy and a better understanding of the roles of supporters and leaders. Students expand their civic concepts of power, equality, justice, and citizenship as they learn about local government.

The historic study of local communities focuses on the social/cultural, political, and economic factors that helped to shape these communities. Students study about the significant people, places, events, and issues that influenced life in their local communities. Students can investigate local events and issues and connect them to national events and issues. The grade 4 program should consider the following themes and events at the local level: Native American Indians of New York State, the European encounter, the colonial and Revolutionary War period, the new nation, and the period of industrial growth and development in New York State. This chronological framework will help students to organize information about local history and connect it to United States history.

Connect local, New York State, and United States history, focusing on the following themes:

Grade Five: The United States, Canada, and Latin America

The grade 5 social studies program stresses geographic, economic, and social/cultural understandings related to the United States, Canada, and nations in Latin America today. These perspectives build on and reinforce historic and political content about the United States included in the grade 4 social studies program. When appropriate, the grade 5 program should use contemporary examples of case studies to help students understand the content understandings that follow. The content understandings were developed to assist in selecting specific factual information and case studies. For additional guidance in selecting content, case studies, activities, evaluation questions, and resources, consult Social Studies Program: Grade 5 (New York State Education Department, 1987).

The economies of the United States, Canada, and Latin American nations

Concepts such as scarcity, supply and demand, markets, opportunity costs, resources, productivity, economic growth, and systems can be used to study the economies and economic systems of the United States, Canada, and Latin America.

Individuals and groups in the United States, Canada, and Latin America attempt to satisfy their basic needs and wants by utilizing scarce capital, natural, and human resources.

Types and availability of resources are important to economic development in the United States, Canada, and Latin America today.

The nations of North, Central, and South America depend on one another for various resources and products they need.

Production, distribution, exchange, and consumption of goods and services are economic decisions which the nations of North and South America must make.

Science and technology have influenced the standard of living in nations in North, Central, and South America.

Exchanges of technologies, plants, animals, and diseases between and among nations of the Americas and Europe and sub-Saharan Africa have changed life in these regions.

Nations in North, Central, and South America form organizations and make agreements to promote economic growth and development.

As the economic systems of the global community have become more interdependent, decisions made in one nation or region in the Western Hemisphere have implications for all nations or regions.

The governments of the United States, Canada, and Latin American nations

Across time and place, the people of the Western Hemisphere have held differing assumptions regarding power, authority, governance, and law.

Basic civic values such as justice, due process, equality, and majority rule with respect for minority rights are expressed in the constitutions and laws of the United States, Canada, and nations of Latin America.

Constitutions, rules, and laws are developed in democratic societies in order to maintain order, provide security, and protect individual rights.

The rights of citizens in the United States are similar to and different from the rights of citizens in other nations of the Western Hemisphere.

The roles of citizenship are defined by different constitutions in the Western Hemisphere. Governmental structures vary from place to place, as do the structure and functions of governments in the United States, Canada, and Latin American countries today.

Concepts such as civic life, politics, and government can be used to answer questions about what governments can and should do, how people should live their lives together, and how citizens can support the proper use of authority or combat the abuse of political power. (Adapted from: Civics Framework for the 1998 NAEP, p. 19)

Legal, political, and historic documents define the values, beliefs, and principles of constitutional democracy. In the United States these documents include the Declaration of Independence, the United States Constitution, and the Bill of Rights. In Canada these documents include the British North America Act and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Citizenship in the United States, Canada, and nations of Latin America includes an awareness of the patriotic celebrations of those nations. In the United States these celebrations include:

Grade 6: The Eastern Hemisphere

The grade 6 social studies program emphasizes the interdependence of all people, keying on the Eastern Hemisphere. Many of the lessons and activities for this grade level draw on specific examples of nations and regions in the Eastern Hemisphere chosen by the district. It is highly recommended that lessons also compare and contrast this specific information with similar data from the United States, Canada, and Latin America.

The grade 6 program focuses on a social science perspective emphasizing the interaction of geography and economics. The core disciplines of geography and economics are used to develop and draw relationships and understandings about social/cultural, political, and historic aspects of life in the Eastern Hemisphere. Historical insights are used as a means of developing a total perspective rather than an organizing framework. The focus should be on major turning points that seque into the 7th-grade social history of the United States.

Each district has a responsibility for extending the student's content examples from cultures other than the student's own, and from a variety of geographic, socioeconomic, ethnic, and racial groups.

Grade 6—Content Understandings

Religions and other belief systems (animism, ancestor worship, Confucianism, Hinduism, Buddhism, Judaism, Christianity, Islam) have both united and divided the peoples of the Eastern Hemisphere.

The civilizations and cultures of the Eastern Hemisphere have contributed important ideas, beliefs, and traditions to the history of humankind.

From earliest times, networks of trade have connected the various civilizations of the Eastern Hemisphere.

Individuals and groups in the Eastern Hemisphere have played important roles and made important contributions to world history.

Slavery has existed across eras and regions in the Eastern Hemisphere.

Internal and external factors altered civilizations in the Eastern Hemisphere and eventually contributed to their decline.

During the late Middle Ages and Renaissance periods, new long distance trade routes emerged, linking the peoples of Africa, Asia, and Europe.

In Europe, the Renaissance was marked by major achievements in literature, music, painting, sculpture, and architecture.

The crime of genocide crosses cultures and eras. Jews and other groups experienced devastation at the hands of Nazi Germany.

Geography of Eastern Hemisphere nations

The use of various grids, symbols, and notations makes it possible to locate specific places and indicate distance and direction in the Eastern Hemisphere.

Special purpose maps can be used to show various geographic aspects of Earth's surface as seen in the Eastern Hemisphere.

The nations and regions of the Eastern Hemisphere can be studied using maps, globes, aerial and other photographs, satellite-produced images, and models. (Taken from: National Geography Standards, 1994).

The nations and regions of the Eastern Hemisphere can be analyzed in terms of spatial organization, places and regions, physical settings (including natural resources), human systems, and environment and society.

Aregion is an area which is tied together for some identifiable reason, such as physical, political, economic, or cultural features.

Civilizations developed where geographic conditions were most favorable.

Geographic features and climatic conditions in the Eastern Hemisphere influence land use.

The geographic diversity of the Eastern Hemisphere has significantly influenced physical mobility and the course of human development.

The migration of groups of people has led to cultural diffusion because people carry their ideas and ways of life with them when they move from one place to another.

Overpopulation and widespread poverty threaten the political stability of some nations in the Eastern Hemisphere.

Urbanization has been a characteristic of the civilizations and cultures of the Eastern Hemisphere.

The environment is affected by people as they interact with it.

The effects of geographic conditions are moderated by technology.

Economic

The ways resources are used impact the economic, political, and historic aspects of life throughout the world.

Scarcity

People have unlimited needs and wants which they must meet with limited resources. Anation with limited natural resources must interact with other nations to secure its resource needs.

Needs and Wants

In many areas of the world, improvement in life expectancy and health care have contributed to rapid population growth.

Economic Systems

Throughout the Eastern Hemisphere, there is great diversity in the standard of living. Concepts such as scarcity, supply and demand, markets, opportunity costs, resources, productivity, economic growth, and systems can be used to study the economies and economic systems of the various nations of the Eastern Hemisphere.

Interdependence Economic Systems

The economic systems of the world have become an interdependent network.

Different economic systems have evolved to deal with economic decision making.

In traditional economies, decision making and problem solving are guided by the past.

consumer purchases.

In command economies, decisions regarding the control and use of the means of production and distribution are planned by the government.

In market economies, decisions regarding what is to be produced are based upon patterns of

In many countries "mixed" economies have evolved to deal with economic decision making.

Nations have joined with one another in organizations which promote economic development and growth. For example, the European Union was formed to promote free trade and a common economic policy among its members.

Interdependence

As the economic systems of the global community have become more interdependent, decisions made in one nation or region have implications for all regions.

Some of the nations of the Eastern Hemisphere play leadership roles in the global economy. Many of the communist nations and former communist nations in the Eastern Hemisphere are moving toward market economies.

Governments of Eastern Hemisphere nations

Family, clan, and tribal groups act to maintain law and order.

As settlement patterns changed, new forms of political order developed to meet the more complex needs of societies.

Values

Across time and place, the people of the Eastern Hemisphere have held differing assumptions regarding power, authority, governance, and law.

Government

Government

Governments change over time and place to meet the changing needs and wants of their people.

Values

Present systems of government have their origins in the past.

The values of Eastern Hemisphere nations affect the guarantee of human rights and how human needs are met.

Government

The values of Eastern Hemisphere nations are embodied in their constitutions, statutes, and important court cases.

In modern political states, formalized governmental structures play a major role in maintaining social order and control.

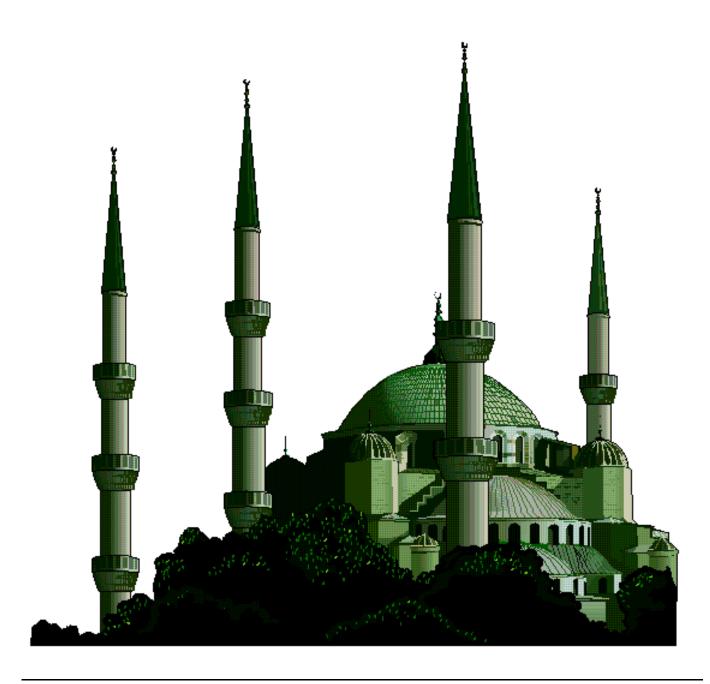

Political boundaries change over time and place.

The extent to which human rights are protected becomes a key issue in totalitarian societies. International organizations were formed to promote peace, economic development, and cultural understanding. The United Nations was created to prevent war and to fight hunger, disease, and ignorance.

Citizens of the nations of the Eastern Hemisphere have rights and responsibilities as defined by their constitutions and by other laws of their nations.

Grades 7-8 Social Studies: United States and New York State History

States and New York State history. Course content is divided into 11 units, tracing the human experience in the United States from pre-Columbian times to the present, and tying political, geographic, economic, and social trends in United States history to parallel trends and time frames in New York State history.

Teachers are encouraged to develop and explore the 11 units of study within a two-year time frame. Knowledge of the needs of students and availability of instructional material and resources will assist in determining which units to study in which grades. The grades 7-8 course builds on and seeks to reinforce skills, concepts, and content understandings introduced in the K-6 program. It is, therefore, a vital link in the overall goals of the K-12 social studies program, and provides a solid content base in American history, allowing the grade 11 course to do greater justice to the study of the United States as a developing and fully developed industrial nation. By including hemispheric links to Canada and Mexico when appropriate, teachers will provide students a model for the global connections they will discover in the grades 9 and 10 social studies program. Mr. Henry Mueller, Niskayuna CSD; Ms. Susan Owens, East Greenbush CSD; and Ms. Elizabeth Guardenier, Bedford CSD authored the Connections column for this core curriculum.

IV. EUROPEAN CONCEPTIONS OF THE WORLD IN 1500

Content	Standards	Concepts/Themes	Connections
<ul> <li>Objectives:</li> <li>1. To understand the worldview held by Europeans prior to 1500</li> <li>2. To understand the ways different people view the same event or issues from a variety of perspectives</li> </ul>	2	Movement of People and Goods	ESSENTIALQUESTIONS:  - How was the European worldview demonstrated in maps, artwork, and writing from the time?  - How can misconceptions lead to stereotyping?
Content Outline:  A. European knowledge was based on a variety of sources  1. Accounts of early travelers and explorers  2. Avariety of different maps  3. Writing of ancient scholars  4. Guesswork  5. Oral traditions and histories  B. Different worldviews and ethnocentrism resulted in many misconceptions			CLASSROOM IDEAS:  • Rate the reliability of a variety of sources of information.  • Find examples of stereotyping in historic and current events.

UNIT TWO: EUROPEAN EXPLORATION AND COLONIZATION OF THE AMERICAS

I. EUROPEAN EXPLORATION AND SETTLEMENT

Content	Standards	Concepts/Themes	Connections
Objectives:  1. To understand major turning points, such as the European exploration of and settlement in the Americas, by investigating the causes and other factors that brought about change and the results of these changes  2. To understand the impacts of European settlement on Native American Indians and Europeans  3. To investigate why people and places are located where they are located and what patterns can be perceived in these locations  4. To understand the ways different people view the same event or issues from a variety of perspectives  Content Outline:  A. Motivating factors  1. Technological improvements in navigation  2. Consolidation of political power within certain countries in Europe  3. Desire to break into the Eastern trade markets  4. Missionary zeal  B. Geographic factors influenced European exploration and settlement in North and South America  1. Effects of weather and natural hazards on the Atlantic crossings  2. Characteristics of different physical environments in the Americas and where different Europeans settled  3.
